

Italian fiber optic solar container battery

Overview

The country's newest fiber optic energy storage power station in Sicily is rewriting the rules of renewable energy. Imagine storing solar power not in clunky batteries but in hair-thin glass fibers – that's Italy's "spaghetti solution" to energy challenges. Enel is leading this revolution with advanced projects both nationally and internationally, thereby contributing to Grid stabilization and decarbonization. Since the 1980s, Italy has shown a constant propensity to innovate in the field of "classic" renewables, with the use of hydropower and pumped. The hi-tech giant, which has also invested directly in the company, has in fact bet on the CO₂ Battery, which uses carbon dioxide as a working fluid to ensure clean, safe and always-available energy, overcoming the intermittency limits of solar and wind power. The Ottana plant, built by reclaiming. Ever wondered how Italy is turning sunlight into a 24/7 power supply?
